

The Center for Integrative Psychology

At Alliant International University presents

Exploring Intuition

Third Eye by Ed Tajchman

Please join us for an evening exploring the powerful and still mysterious phenomenon of intuition. Our discussion will include a brief history of intuition's acceptance within psychology, along with definitions of intuition, theories of intuition, types of intuition, personal intuitive styles, practical and spiritual uses of intuition, improving intuition, and research describing a culture of intuitive women. An exercise designed to discover your dominant style of intuition will be included.

Michelle Dexter, Psy.D., NLPCC is a recent graduate of the Culture and Human Behavior program at Alliant International University, and sits on the steering committee of the Center for Integrative Psychology. She is a certified life coach, sexologist, and researcher. Adjunct Faculty in Integrative studies at CSPP-San Diego, Michelle also teaches Human Sexuality and other psychology courses at Palomar College in San Marcos.

Don Eulert, Ph.D., has published eight books, ranging from American Haiku to the mythology of Buffalo Bill to the exploration of ritual and healing. His most recent collection, Ritual and Healing: Ordinary and Extraordinary Transformation, examines the importance of ritual in our lives. Professor of Integrative Psychology for over 30 years at the California School of Professional Psychology in San Diego, and Director of the Center for Integrative Psychology, he has given thousands of clinical psychologists-in-training a transpersonal context to inform themselves and their work.
